The nailers declare they prefer to teach feeders rather than Eastern men, alleged nailers, who have to learn the whole business after they come learn the whole business after they come here. But they think it only fair that they should select the men whom they shall teach, and select competent, desirable men.

A man well known in labor circles last evening expressed himself in a talk with an INTELLIGENCEN reporter as surprised at the recent stand of some of the feeders, an Invallicances reporter as surprised at the recent atand of some of the feeders, against taking the nailers' jobs. Said he:

"The nailers ignored the feeders' demands. Noy the feeders are in a position to secure what they have long demanded in vain. I can't see why they should give its to the nailers at the eleventh hour, and accept promises which after the existing difficulties are settled they will have no means of compelling the nailers to keep. I believe laboring men and craftsmen in general are with the feeders who have taken machines. It certainly looks queer that the great body of feeders themselves should go back on the few who have gone to work on the strength of the unanimous vote of the feeders' Union."

In April of this year there arrived in Detroit, from Columbus, three men claiming to be brothers and going by the names of Jacob S., Robert Lee and Wm. Stacy Rhoades. Previous to this, it is reported that they were in business in Columbus similar to that started on Twelfith street under the names of Rhoades Brothers and to the R. Lee Rhoades. They opened in Detroit under the firm name of A. L. Wright & Co. Annie Louise Wright was the name of C. Ford Wright's wile, and while he was here Hon, Alf. Caldwall endeavored to secture for her a divorce from him, but he skipped out before proceedings of much anything to do with the Detroit firm of A. L. Wright & Co., is not known. He visited the Rhodes men while they were there. Jacob Rhodes permitted himself to be addressed in Detroit as Mr. Wright, Jacob in appearance is short, thich, heavy set, with a smooth face and a dark keen eye. All of them were gitted with a pushing business like cheek, especially Jacob, and they proceeded to plunge at once into

THE WAY THEY WORKED. On the 16th of June Jacob skipped, leaving behind him two unpaid hotel pills. On the 23d uit. Robert Lee followed, going estensibly to Cincinnati to buy watermelons. A day or two after the control of t lowed, going ostensibly to Cincinnati to buy watermelons. A day or two afterwards Radell & Mathewson closed the Detroit establishment with an attachment. What little they found in the place realiged only about $80, which, sire the costs had been taken out, left the firm very little. After this proceeding William Stacy Rhoades left Detroit, probably surmising rightly that that field had been worked for all that it was worth.

During the short time that A L. Wright Co. fjourished in Detroit they are sexpensed over receipts, about $800; total $93, 210.

Wright Co. fjourished in Detroit they caught Rudell & Mathewson for about $5750 and Eastern fruit men for about $5750 and Eastern fruit of Budell & Mathewson.
